Overview:

RHR International is a global firm of management psychologists. Our doctorate level psychologists provide sound advice and counsel to senior energy executives to best match and develop your talent with the needs of the organization.

- We assess individuals, teams and organizations in order to identify how they need to develop over time.
- We accelerate the learning and development process by not only identifying what needs to be learned, but also by showing how it can be learned most effectively.
- Our interventions help mobilize and sustain necessary changes that positively affect the performance of the business, because we focus on the individuals and the business context in which they operate.

Mission:

Since 1945 our mission is to create strategically relevant services by a) partnering with top decision and policy makers when determining needs and b) working with key levels to develop influential service plans. We strive to provide outstanding assessment and development capability in order to enhance the strength of individuals, effectiveness of teams and the overall performance of our client organizations.

Products & Services:

RHR specializes in executive selection and integration, individual and organizational development, succession planning, merger integration, executive education, change implementation, team building and organizational surveys.
