

Stephanie Voyda

Senior Vice President of Member Engagement and Events

Stephanie Voyda is Senior Vice President of Member Engagement and Events for EEI. Stephanie joined EEI in 1997 and has held various positions within the organization, with increasing levels of functional and leadership responsibilities.

Stephanie currently directs EEI's member engagement and events teams. She is responsible for EEI's U.S., International, and Associate member programs, as well as strategic partnerships, working to create and deliver strong member value.

Stephanie plans and executes EEI's Board of Directors' meetings, supporting EEI's Board chair, executive leadership team, and member electric company CEOs. She also oversees EEI's events and conferences, including EEI's annual meeting and thought leadership forum and annual financial conference. She and her team continue to revamp and expand programming and sponsorship opportunities for EEI's conferences, working to enhance attendee and member engagement and experience.

Prior to this role, Stephanie held a number of positions in EEI's communications department. Before joining EEI, she served as the Legislative and Communications Coordinator for the Professional Aviation Safety Specialists, where she worked for almost six years on aviation safety-related issues.

Stephanie serves on the Board of the Electrical Safety Foundation International. She is a graduate of the American University, and lives in Arlington, Virginia.
